Consultation framework

The steps to a mutually beneficial partnership between iwi and secondary school can be likened to finding a suitable golf course. There are steps to this process and the result is rewarding, enjoyable and beneficial.

Tuatahi:	Self examination – much like surveying the lay of the land (golf course) one must examine one’s own motivation for engagement – do I like this course? Do I know where the good parts are and the possible pitfalls? Am I ready to play/engage, do I know how? Do I understand the terms, definitions and the iwi principles? Am I ready to play? Is my Board/staff/whanau ready to play? Do I understand and can I implement the iwi education strategy?
Tuarua:	Research - Who are they? Where are they? Ring the iwi education centre, talk to locals, find out about the iwi. Is my school ready to let the iwi know about us?
Tuatoru:	Cost – how much is this going to cost me, my school, my Board, staff and students? (not necessarily monetary). Short term, long term costs? What does this mean?
Tuawha:	When can we play?
